Choppertown the Sinners

Choppertown, the Movie. I got a chance to see a new biker flick called "Choppertown, The Sinners," at its pre-release party here in Los Angeles. The movie is a behind-the-scenes look at a group of custom chopper fanatics called the Sinners. I particularly enjoyed the picture because it was focused on building inexpensive choppers, not the $100,000 crap that you see on TV. The guys' bikes are built to ride. Some of the members of the Sinners include Cole Foster of the Salinas Boys, and rocker James Intveld. Ultimately, this is a film about brotherhood, heart and a love of motorcycling. The film is available on their website at www.choppertown.net
